Dear Jen Waller,
Nice to hear from you. About Dr. Miljkovic's article, you could upload it to Miami's Scholarly Commons with a copyright notice.
And the URL for our journal is also needed.
If you have any other questions, please feel free to contact me.

Best regards,
Sincerely yours,
Pann

Subject: Permission request for one of your authors

Hello,

I am writing on behalf of Dr. Tatjana Miljkovic, a faculty member here at Miami University. Dr. Miljkovic is a co-author of Market Information on Sourcing Cellulosic Feedstock for Biofuel Production in Northern Plains Region of the United States, which you published on January 20, 2012. I have also linked to the article for your reference. Dr. Miljkovic has authorized me to contact you.

Dr. Miljkovic would like to deposit the full text of her work to Miami's institutional repository, The Scholarly Commons. The record of each article deposited includes the complete citation for the published version, along with a URL for the journal.

In reviewing the permissions you grant to your authors, I see that:

"The policy of Journal of Agricultural Science and Technology A & Journal of Agricultural Science and Technology B Trust is to acquire an exclusive licence [sic] for all contributions. The 'Transfer of copyright agreement' must be signed after any article is accepted for publication."

I also see that you have published the article open access. I thank you very much for supporting open access and making your authors' works available to a wider audience.

Because you now have the copyright in Dr. Miljkovic's work, I am seeking permission for her to upload the work to Miami's Scholarly Commons. We would be happy to apply a Creative Commons license to the work, or we would be happy to upload it with a copyright notice.

Could you please contact me via email to give your permission and to pass along any associated conditions?

Thank you very much for your time and attention. I look forward to hearing from you.

Best Regards,

Jen
